We always think outside the given parameters in order to find even better and more effective solutions. This frame is troubling when it comes to the provision of medical care, Greg Lipper, senior litigation counsel at Americans United for Separation of Church and State, told Rewire. Nearly two-thirds of women of reproductive age currently use a contraceptive method. Customers of CVS should start demanding that the chain treat all persons equally, including those in need of contraception, whether in an emergency or not. It receives the most prescription revenue of any pharmacy in the United States. Read the instructions that come in the package for more information. You had sex and the condom broke. Call your nearest Planned Parenthood to see if they can hook you up with emergency contraception that fits your budget. Tobacco is a product that we know kills people, and it makes sense for a health company to pull it from its shelves. News Press freedoms are under attack now, more than ever. At least two CVS stores have not followed this policy in the past. An Rewire petition urges CVS to change its policy and guarantee in-store access to emergency contraception. Mike DeAngelis, a CVS spokesperson, told Rewire in an email that the vast majority of its emergency contraception sales are non-prescription and do not require a pharmacist. What caught our attention then was a rash of incidents, some local and some national, of pharmacists in a variety of chains refusing to dispense contraception.
