But perhaps more disturbing are the drugs that are not identified, said Joseph W. The number of older Americans coming to Mexico for discount medications has fueled an industry that thrives off the ability of consumers to pass through United States Customs with little or no hassle, and has raised safety concerns on both sides of the border. Many of these have sprung up in a couple of days, medications filling the shelves before walls are completed. At some crossings, Mexican prescriptions were accepted; at others, only American prescriptions were allowed. At the border, officials sometimes take drugs from people if they do not meet regulations, including high numbers of Valium, Viagra and amoxicillin. In Nuevo Laredo, Tijuana, Los Algodones and other communities, the number of pharmacies has doubled, sometimes tripled, in recent years. Shalala's action still stands, although several members of Congress have asked the new administration to reverse the decision. In January, a government committee found that the average prices for the top five drugs for the elderly were 83 percent higher in the United States than in Mexico. In Tijuana, where 35 pharmacies are crowded within about yards of the United States border, Larry and Juliana Hoffer quickly found the once popular drug Propulsid, which was withdrawn from the market in the United States last year. Please try again later. More than 25, people walk daily through the San Ysidro port, which has the busiest foot crossings along the border. Then he showed another plastic bag, this one containing about large white pills, and bearing no identification stamp. But there is no denying that Americans are big fans of barbecues. Hoffer's doctor recommended making the trip to Mexico for the drug. Inspections of the drugs Fludac an antidepressant, Omesol an ulcer treatment and Glipitrol XL for Type 2 diabetes discovered that they contained too much active ingredient or were impure. It concluded that side effects did occur from buying drugs in Mexico and that the effects might lead to hospital stays, but added that more research was needed. The drugs are manufactured by Mexican pharmaceutical companies or American companies with plants in Mexico, or they come from as far away as India.
