It's millions of dollars. From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia. By the time Lipitor went on sale in early , it was the fifth drug in a class called statins that lower LDL or bad cholesterol. That would make it Pfizer's No. But after nearly a decade as the top-selling drug, Lipitor is set to be toppled in after getting its first generic rivals four weeks ago. Views Read Edit View history. But a study showed Lipitor reduced bad cholesterol dramatically more than the other statins, from the very start of treatment and even more so over time. The Lipitor promotion team set new standards for a marketing campaign. They gave free samples of the white pills and sometimes bought lunch for the office staff. So Warner-Lambert partnered with much-larger Pfizer Inc. Normally, that would make it very tough for a latecomer to sway many doctors and patients to switch. It's the only brand-name drug among the 20 most-dispensed drugs in the U. They didn't think we could be a viable contender," said Adele Gulfo, then head of cardiovascular marketing at Warner-Lambert Co. Nicknamed "turbostatin," Lipitor became the top-selling statin barely three years after it was launched. Uses authors parameter Use mdy dates from May All stub articles.
