But as this new report demonstrates, they could save much more if pharmacies stopped jacking up their rates to startling degrees. Patricia Freeman says all the prices we just weighed-- forget them. Freeman says in today's society with people living longer and more chronic disease, medications have become the mainstays of therapy, making it critical to get to know one pharmacist who knows your healthcare needs. A USA TODAY telephone survey last month of more than pharmacies in six states found Walgreens had among the highest out-of-pocket prices to make, or "compound," the same child-strength liquid prescription. The results were striking, with pharmacy representatives claiming that the higher prices were necessary for covering overhead, and considering that selling medication constitutes most of their revenue and profit margins:. But the Consumer Reports investigation suggests there are significantly more savings to be had. The agency also said oseltamivir phosphate does not treat or prevent illnesses caused by infections other than the flu virus , and does not prevent bacterial infections that may happen with the flu.
