John Bottrell is a registered Respiratory Therapist. To make matters worse, inhalers used to control and prevent COPD and asthma cost even more than albuterol way more. If you have COPD or asthma you are probably well aware that inhalers used to treat these diseases can be very expensive. This was a price that most of us were more than happy to pay for inhalers that can give us our breath back. The good news is that once the patent for these medicines and their delivery devices expire, we should expect for these prices to come down quite a bit. There is a lot of risk taken by pharmaceuticals to produce new medicine, and it costs millions of dollars. So, you see, these inhalers are expensive even if you have insurance. This forced pharmaceuticals to change their formulas. Advair and Breo are expensive because they use complicated formulas that require complicated delivery devices that are very expensive to produce. Because of the new formula, they were able to re-patent these inhalers, thus eliminating other companies from making cheaper generic versions of albuterol, thus driving up the cost for us.
