For a while the surgery was enough to keep me comfortable, but as I've gotten older I've had to take Nexium every day. The government's allegation was that AstraZeneca paid kickbacks to ensure that Medco kept Nexium on its formulary. He along with Rep. Customers in the pharmacy department of a Target store in the Brooklyn, New York. Reuters Pharmacists around the country are agitated. Big PBMs also sometimes own pharmacies. Nexium buyers, like pharmacies and wholesalers, have sued AstraZeneca, accusing the company of being involved in a "pay for delay" scheme. For the insurance companies and employers, they help manage prescription claims. In contrast, according to the FDA, the generic drug manufacturer must prove their drug is the same as, or bio equivalent to the brand name drug by measuring the amount of drug in the bloodstream and comparing that to the brand. I think the time has come for small pharmacies and large pharmacies to stand up to big PBMs and make a difference for our profession and in our patients lives. However, PUTT believes this is happening for most expensive brand drugs including insulin, inhalers and even expensive specialty medications. They wrote a letter to the Center for Medicare and Medicaid Services CMS warning of predatory pricing driving small pharmacies out of business. But some smaller PBMs manage far fewer formularies than the big three, which is to say they have fewer, and usually smaller, clients. And, because some of their fees are pegged to the drug's price, the PBMs can actually profit from higher prices too. He also frowns on the vertical integration going on in the industry.
