In the past decade, synthetic versions of these chemicals have been making their way into consumer products. He was also calmer but was still too aggressive to just let Sara be. Sara, a former shelter cat, has been luxuriating in my home for nine years. Although each of the two manufacturers uses a different patented pheromone, there is no catfighting between them. Alas, that's not the case. Over the past year, more than a million cat-owning households have used pheromone products, which have no effect on humans or other noncat species. Numerous studies, in journals such as Veterinary Record and Applied Animal Behaviour Science, have found that Ceva Animal Health's Feliway pheromone sprays and diffusers help reduce stress-related behaviors such as urine marking, vertical scratching and aggression. With the number of pet cats in the U. I didn't think psychotropics would resolve their differences, nor did I want to permanently sequester them in different rooms. I would love to say my cats snuggled up together, transformed by laboratory science. Fluoxetine is an anxiety medication for dogs and cats available at America's Largest Pet Pharmacy, PetMeds.
