Furthermore, it is very much complementary to the traditional approach of setting targets per observing network, e. Home Framework for Ocean Observing. The IOCCP developed a 4-step work plan leading to the initial assessment of the existing observing network. Comments, inputs, edits and any other types of interaction are welcome! Moreover, strong efforts to harmonize the work of three panels have been made to ensure that the vision of a truly multidisciplinary GOOS is gradually being realized. The concept of optimally designing the multidisciplinary, multi-platform observing system based on the characteristics of key ocean phenomena to capture is challenging but lies at the heart of the FOO. This task was unprecedented due to the very different levels of "maturity" in setting societal requirements for designing and carrying out sustained measurements of physical, biogeochemical and biological phenomena and the EOVs needed to observe and model them. Input of a wider community was invited before, during and after the town hall meeting organized during the OSM'14 in Honolulu. The FOO was published in May and the implementation process started shortly after. First tangible outcomes of these proposed projects could emerge just in time to be highlighted at the OceanObs'19 Conference. While these documents are being continuously improved, public release of updated versions is planned no more frequently than on an annual basis. Ocean Colour in prep. With the set of Biogeochemistry EOVs in place, we initiated efforts to set observing targets for the biogeochemical ocean observing system. The workshop resulted in drafts of project implementation strategies developed under three 'demonstration themes': Framework for Ocean Observing. This list would enable funding of the interdisciplinary, integrated global ocean observing network the improved, multidisciplinary GOOS.
