Currently, there are several mammoplasty techniques capable of achieving excellent levels of satisfaction and results. The shape and size of the scars vary depending on the needs of the patient. Points are removed after approximately days and the return to physical activities is usually allowed after 1 month. This permanence also involves the period of anaesthetic preparation and postoperative recovery. Meanwhile, the time of the surgical act should not be confused with the time of permanence of the patient in the surgical center environment. Finally we advise the treatment of the scars during the first 6 months, aiming to avoid darkened, hypertrophic and keloid scars. Technically known as Reduction Mammoplasty. The use of a suitable support for months is advised to allow the healing of the tissues in the ideal position and to accelerate the reabsorption of the swelling. Normally, these techniques are most advised for patients with good quality skin and a discreet increase in breast size. Anaesthesia Local, epidural or associated anaesthesia, at the discretion of the surgeon. Breast reduction surgery

Currently, there are several mammoplasty techniques capable of achieving excellent levels of satisfaction and results. The final result can only be appreciated with total accommodation of tissues and total swelling resorption which typically occur after months. Any sport that uses the arms intensely should be avoided for 2 months. To maximize the aesthetic result, and your well-being, we try to make these incisions in strategic places to try to make the scars less noticeable. Depending on each type of breast, from two and a half hours to four hours, it can be extended a little more, in some cases. Recovery from Breast Reduction Surgery Patients undergoing mammoplasty should remain at rest for about days, avoiding raising their arms above shoulder level for 2 weeks. It is surgery that seeks to reduce the glandular tissue, fat and skin of the breasts, making it more proportional to the rest of the body and frequently giving relief to discomfort due to excessive weight and consequently facilitating the way of dressing. It can be performed under general or local anesthesia and the hospitalization time may be 24 hours or as agreed with your doctor. Patients undergoing mammoplasty should remain at rest for about days, avoiding raising their arms above shoulder level for 2 weeks. As with any surgical procedure, mammoplasty involves incisions somewhere in the breast.
