Eligibility requirements vary for each program. Hi Sandy, glad to hear that you have been using retinol for years. The generic retin-A is not expensive anyway, the final cost depends on how much your insurance would cover. When there is a range of pricing, consumers should normally expect to pay the lower price. This way will also save you an extra office visit to the dermatologist. I even read a thread in which the poster claims that her dermatologist did some test on these overseas tretinoin products and they have higher or lower content of tretinoin than the package claims.
