The result was a 50 percent reduction in cholesterol absorption the same as produced by ezetimibe and an LDL reduction of 12 milligrams per deciliter of blood, also the same amount as produced by ezetimibe. The statins block synthesis of cholesterol in the liver. That means, said Dr. As a result of the safety finding, the companies' stocks dropped modestly by the close of trading Monday: You are already subscribed to this email. Instead of looking at heart attacks or strokes, the researchers looked at a surrogate, the buildup of plaque in the carotid artery of the neck. Those with the disorder have a tendency to accumulate very high levels of cholesterol in their blood. Many of us had not quite expected it to be that way. But it did not reduce the buildup of plaque in the coronary arteries -- a key indicator of progression toward heart disease. His scores make his case.
